US Stops Losing Viet War, Defense Secretary Claims

No Delay Expected In Space Plan

Gemini Power Unit Failure Gives Trouble

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The space agency said today that an electrical problem with a spacecraft power unit was not expected to delay Saturday's Gemini 7 launching.

A spokesman made the statement after engineers wrestled through the night with the trouble. First they installed a new power unit in the spacecraft, discovered it probably would cause the same difficulty, yanked it out and replaced it with the original unit.

"The problem is not completely solved at this time," the spokesman said. "Evaluation is continuing. But the situation looks good and we don't expect it will delay the launching."

Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. are to ride Gemini 7 into space for a 14-day endurance mission. Nine days later, Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford are to take off in an attempt to rendezvous within a few feet of Gemini 7.

The trouble developed Saturday during a flight rehearsal when a stray electrical signal called a "voltage spike" appeared in the spacecraft guidance system. The source was traced to the power unit which supplies the system.

It happened as the launch team switched to a secondary guidance system while practicing an emergency procedure.

To Furnish Men Needed In Fight Against Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ended his visit to Viet Nam today by declaring that the United States would throw in as many fighting men as needed to wage the war against the Communists.

McNamara told newsmen at Saigon airport after his 1½-day fact-finding tour that his most dramatic impression is that "we have stopped losing the war."

Pressure On Profits By US Lenders

'Overly High' Interest Rates Being Charged

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson hopes to bring pressure to bear against what he believes are unjustified profits being rung up by the nation's lenders from overly high interest rates.

If he has found no way to curb the money changers in his temple of economic stability, the President is ready to give them a hard time about the mounting interest rates they are charging the government when it is forced, as it is continually, to borrow more and more money.

His first move in the direction of easier money could come in the naming of a new member to replace C. Canby Balderston, expected to retire about Jan. 1 from the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

However, William McChesney Martin, the Federal Reserve Board chairman whom critics have blamed for high interest rates, still has more than four years to go on his present 14-year term. A proposal by the late President John F. Kennedy to make the chairman's term coincide with a presidential term went nowhere in Congress, and the Johnson administration has no plans to revive it.

The board is maintaining a 4 per cent rediscount rate at this point which tends to boost interest charged by banks and other lending institutions.

The White House has figured out that the cost of short-term borrowing by the Treasury has gone up 72 per cent since 1961. In that year the Treasury was renting money for an average of 2.378 per cent interest; this month, the rate has been 4.097 per cent.

More Viet Nam Protests Considered

Saturday March Not Convincing 'To Anyone'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leader of the weekend peace march on Washington, in which thousands protested American involvement in the Viet Nam war, said today that "a demonstration doesn't convince anybody."

Despite this, Sanford Gottlieb said in a telephone interview, more demonstrations are being considered by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy — SANE.

Gottlieb is political action director of SANE, which sponsored Saturday's march and picketing of the White House in protest of U.S. policies in Viet Nam. March officials estimated the turnout at 40,000 to 50,000; police placed it at 25,000.

"We were definitely pleased with the turnout," Gottlieb said, "despite the bus drivers who wouldn't drive people from New York and also from Baltimore."

Future marches are being considered, he said, because "at a time when a dramatic event is needed to publicize your point of view, there's nothing like a large demonstration."

"But a demonstration doesn't convince anybody," Gottlieb said.

March leaders issued a leaflet during the protest titled "What to Do Next." SANE advised protesters to write letters to newspapers, support politicians who favor a peaceful solution to the war and urge clergymen to discuss the moral issues of the Viet Nam battle.

"None of us has any illusions about the effect of any single march or even about marches as a form of action," Gottlieb said. To get results, recommendations such as offered in the leaflet "must be carried out week by week."

Will Confer With Soviets On Weapons

MOSCOW (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart arrived in Moscow today for talks with Soviet leaders on Viet Nam and the nonproliferation of nuclear weapons.

Pravda said it hoped Stewart's four-day visit would contribute "to the normalization of the international situation." British sources here held little hope of major results.

Accompanied by Lord Chalfont, Britain's minister for disarmament, Stewart was scheduled to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Tuesday. Stewart also was expected to meet with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The result of the talks will be a main topic when British Prime Minister Harold Wilson meets with President Johnson in the United States next month.

Observers said Stewart would try to get a clearer idea of the Soviet price for a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear arms. The Soviets have said no agreement is possible unless the United States abandons its proposal for a multilateral nuclear force for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The Soviet Union maintains this would give West Germany access to nuclear arms.

There have been signs of American and British flexibility on the touchy question.

Britain has indicated it considers a nonproliferation agreement more important than a NATO nuclear force.

The United States has proposed a consultation committee that would give other Atlantic Alliance nations some participation in nuclear policy. Some observers say the committee proposal could provide a compromise between the West German desire for a greater voice in nuclear policy and the Soviet demand that no German finger touch the nuclear trigger.

Klansmen Into Federal Court Today

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Three Ku Klux Klansmen accused of killing a civil rights worker went on trial on civil rights charges in federal court today before a stern judge who repeatedly cautioned prospective jurors that they must decide the issue solely on the evidence.

Thirty minutes after court convened, District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. granted a 30-minute recess to give lawyers an opportunity to go over a panel of nearly 60 men and women, both white and Negro, drawn for jury duty.

Half a dozen Negroes were on the panel.

The defendants—Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 22, of Fairfield, Ala.; Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala.—are charged with civil rights violations in connection with the slaying last March 25 of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white Detroit housewife.

Wilkins has already been tried and acquitted of a murder charge in the state courts and the other two defendants are awaiting trial.

Johnson told the prospective jurors on several occasions that "the guilt or innocence of a defendant cannot be determined by what you have read or heard or by anything other than the evidence and the law applicable in the case."

Name House Members Of Committees

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, appointed the House members of 12 interim study committees today.

Sen. John W. Joynt, D - St. Louis, president pro tem of the Senate, said he would name the senatorial members Tuesday.

The committees were created by the regular session of the legislature last summer and cover a wide range of governmental problems. Such committees in the past sometimes have been the target of criticism as merely providing an excuse for "junks" as state expense.

Appointed House chairman of the important State Tax Study Commission to investigate all levels of taxation was Rep. Don H. Kennedy, D-Nevada.

Serving with him will be Reps. William E. Seay, D-Salem, Stephen H. Zeilman, R-Linn, and Vernon M. James, R-Branson.

Here are the House chairmen of the other committees and commissions:

Study of the potential scope, needs, goals and costs of the mental health program for the next 10 years — Rep. James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall.

Study of mass public transportation — Rep. I. W. Henson, D-Mill Spring.

Study of public and private education in Missouri—Rep. W. D. Hibler Jr., D-Brunswick.

Meeting Opens

Ask Permanent Peace Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States should support the United Nations in creating as soon as possible a permanent force to keep peace in the world, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today.

Humphrey took his stand as he opened a White House Conference on International Cooperation which heard the issues of peace literally from the earth to the moon discussed.

One committee urged President Johnson to seek international agreement on "a code for human activity on the moon" to prevent the earth's natural satellite from becoming a military base for any nation.

Humphrey, chairman of the conference called by Johnson in support of the U.N.-proclaimed International Cooperation Year, departed from the previously prepared text of his keynote "High on the agenda of the U.N. and fully supported by this government should be the creation of a permanent peace-keeping force ready to respond and to act if there is a threat to the peace of the world."

Before the participants split up into panels to discuss a variety of possibilities of international cooperation, Humphrey read to them a message from Johnson hailing the conference as "a town meeting of leaders of the nation," and saying he had directed agencies of the government not only to take part but also to "study your recommendations with a view to immediate action."

Mrs. Wilson arrived in Bangkok early today to try to pick up her daughter's trail. Meanwhile, Alan Darby, a newsman at the English-language Bangkok Post read an Associated Press dispatch about the girl's disappearance and recalled a recent article about the Pierra Foundation, a Bangkok orphanage.

Darby called the orphanage and learned that Mary had been working there for a week. He called the U.S. Embassy, by chance found Mrs. Wilson there and told the embassy where Mary was.

"I'm so thankful that she's safe and sound," said Mrs. Wilson after the reunion with her daughter. "She's a do-gooder and rather religious girl."

Two friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Shope, whisked the pair off to their home and refused to allow newsmen to see them.

"They're both distraught and need some rest and quiet," said Mrs. Shope.

Mrs. Wilson and Mary are expected to remain in Bangkok several days before turning to California.

A spokesman at the Pierra Foundation said Mary came to the institute last Tuesday inquiring about adoption of a child.

Ministers' Conference To Economy

Wrangle Over Peace Keeping Divides Group

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Inter-American Foreign Ministers' Conference turns to economics today after a wrangle over peace keeping divided the 19 ministers.

Meeting far into Sunday night, the ministers approved the "Act of Rio de Janeiro" recommending sweeping changes in the structure of the 17-year-old Organization of American States after heated debate and involved parliamentary maneuvering.

The ministers' recommendations included:

—A call for a new conference next July to amend the OAS charter;

—Establishment of a committee to draft the amendments;

—Provision for annual inter-American conferences under the amended charter, and —Creation of three councils of equal status to serve as the organization's political, social and economic, and educational and cultural arms.

Division came over a clause instructing the committee on charter amendments to consider giving the political council peace-keeping responsibilities.

New Face On South Ohio

There is a bright new face on Ohio these days that everybody is happy to see. It is the white face of the clock that stands proudly, as it has for years, atop the great iron frame in front of Bichsel's Jewelry Co., 217 South Ohio.

It was June 5, of this year that a strong wind played hopscotch through the town and among places where it puffed too hard was at the clock, toppling it over from about midway up and smashing it into a thousand or so pieces.

The people of the town were distressed, that was a landmark so old that nobody seemed to remember when it first came to town, from where it came, or how.

Nobody was more unhappy about the clock than Mrs. Ruth Heise. A niece of Mrs. George Bichsel, she had loved that clock. It was beside that clock she had stood as a little girl when she came and spent the summer each year with the Bichsels, and they would wait for Uncle George to come along in the car to pick them up when the store closed. He always had to go after the car.

Maybe it could be welded back together, she told her husband, but John Heise had misgivings. The cost would be prohibitive, and he doubted that it could ever be put together again.

She appealed to the Turley Brothers Welding Co., on East Highway 50, who felt as John Heise felt, but John Turley knew how much it meant to Ruth, how much it meant to the people of the town — how much it meant to him, too, and so he decided to see what he could do.

The base of that clock is cast iron and welding cast iron is a lot different than welding other metal he said. Too, it was broken into so many, many pieces that it was like a jig-saw puzzle to put it together.

It wasn't just the wind, John Turley found, it had cracked too and been broken loose, it was the wind that gave it the big push and sent it clattering to the ground.

The main part was cracked in four places, but all the ornamental work was broken off, and it was a terrific job to put back together again.

It was a masterpiece of casting, Turley found. The next thing to perfection, for it had only one small flaw in the entire great iron base. Casting in iron, he said, is an art.

He couldn't work steadily on it, because, after all, this was something special and he had to keep up his daily work. He knew that he could never be paid what it was worth, and so in his spare time he worked. He had to burn all the paint off in order to weld. It took a lot of time. All of those little pieces or ornament had to be made to fit and then welded.

Then when it was all together again and erected at the spot where it had stood at least since the beginning of the century, there had to be a new face. He made the face, too, with black hands and black letters that may

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I saw red when my eyes fell on the words, "The American husband is the most spoiled, pleasure-seeking parasite in the world."

I was married to a European for ten years so I speak as an authority. The European husband would sooner be caught dead than with a dish towel in his hand. He feels it is beneath his dignity to carry out the garbage or empty an ash tray. It does NOT offend him, however, to sit in an easy chair with his shoes off and watch his wife haul large baskets of laundry up from the basement.

The European husband leaves his wife home a lot. I was never invited on a business trip although my husband's colleagues often took their wives. I was not permitted to join a bridge club because my husband said respectable women don't leave the house alone at night.

Ten years with that dingbat was like a life sentence. Now I am happily married to an American who treats me like a human being. — THUMBS DOWN ON EUROPEAN MEN.

Dear Thumbs: I'm not disputing your word but I know of some American husbands who have the traits which you describe as "European." I'd like to hear from other women who have (or have had) European husbands. What goes (or went) on at your house, girls?

Dear Ann Landers: Recently there was a letter in your column about wives who undress in the closet. The letter attracted my attention because I am a 15-year-old girl who has a similar problem, only I hate to undress in front of female classmates. I just die when I have to shower after physical education. The dressing rooms don't have doors or curtains. It's not that I am overly modest, Ann, it's just that I wear a size 32 A cup brassiere and I am ashamed of having so little to put in it.

A flat-chested girl is like a peacock with no feathers. I feel inferior and self-conscious. Is there anything you can say to make me feel better. — LITTLE EVA.

Dear Eva: If you are only 15

Our society has become dimension wacky in the last 25 years and it's nonsense. Some of these top-heavy movie stars look like pasture animals. The girl who is slightly undersized can always add a little, but the over-endowed ones are stuck. And I don't want any of you smart aleck college boys to write and tell me not to waste my sympathy on girls who are "stuck" with 38's. They might be doing all right—but for the wrong reasons.

Dear Ann Landers: Why do some members of the clergy feel free to call on members of their parish any old time and expect to be welcome as the flowers in spring?

Isn't it common courtesy to telephone and ask if a visit is convenient? Does a clergyman have a special license to drive over whenever he feels like it and ring the doorbell?

I've discussed this with three other women in our parish and they, too, resent these unannounced visits. If we are wrong, please tell us. Thank you.—JUST US.

Dear Just: No one has a right to drop in without first calling to see if it is convenient. I see no justification for a woman being trapped in her own home by a drop-in visitor when she is busy, unprepared, or perhaps dashing to another appointment.

800 Cubans A Week To Enter U. S.

MIAMI (AP) — About 800 Cuban refugees will be added to the U.S. population every week starting Wednesday and possibly continuing for years. From Miami, they will scatter throughout the nation.

The Cuban Refugee Center, which will coordinate the vast distribution program, will steer refugees to relatives who preceded them.

Otherwise, the program shapes up largely as a speedup of resettlement that since 1961 has sent nearly 100,000 exiles to more than 2,000 cities in the 50 states, a center spokesman said.

"Under a change of procedure, resettlement now will be largely on a relative-to-relative basis," said Marshal Wise, director of the government-operated center. "Cubans will look for jobs in areas where they have relatives."

That means populous areas such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, where refugees already are concentrated, will receive more, a center spokesman said. It does not mean, however, that points now without a Cuban population will be left out.

A community wishing to attract refugees, or employers with job openings for some, should contact a church in their hometown or the refugee center in Miami, or both, the spokesman said. Most churches are prepared to relay the requests to settlement agencies, he said.

Under the new phase of the migration movement, relatives of Cubans already in the United States will be flown from Varadero, Cuba, to Miami. There will be nine flights weekly, with Uncle Sam paying the fares.

Applications for evacuation of 174,000 persons from Cuba have been received by the refugee center from 85,190 relatives in this country. It would take more than four years to bring that number here at the rate of 800 weekly, the U.S. and Cuban governments must pass on the applications.

The Rev. Clark Talks to Groups At Smith-Cotton

The Rev. Charles C. Clark, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church, addressed junior and senior high students at Smith-Cotton High School at Thanksgiving assemblies Wednesday morning. He stressed importance of youth recognizing others' needs. Students attended the semi-religious programs on a voluntary basis.

Sally Robertson presided at the junior high assembly. Freshman Girls' Glee Club sang "Prayer of Thanksgiving"; a sextette, composed of Beverly Baker, Debbie Pelham, Diana Goodier, Jackie Reid, Patsy Siragusa and Janet Sparling, sang "Bless This House"; Miss Robertson read the President's proclamation and introduced the Rev. Mr. Clark. Glee Club sang "Thanks Be to God," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mary Faulkner.

Senior High Assembly was opened with singing of "Where in the World But in America?" by the Mixed Chorus. President's proclamation was read by Richard Wasson. Jack Herndon sang "Bless This House." "Thanks Be to God" was sung by Mixed Chorus, accompanied by Teresa Preuitt, pianist.

Lovers Spat Has A Fiery Conclusion

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A young woman told police she threw gasoline on her boy friend's apartment door and set it afire Sunday because she was angry at him.

Trapped in the third-floor apartment by smoke and flames the boy friend, Cecil Jordan and another man, Louis Shaw, were rescued by firemen who took them out a window.

The woman, Miss Juque King 18, was arrested a few blocks away after she called police and told them the fire was not an accident. She was charged with property destruction.

Damage from the fire was estimated by firemen at $500.

Pin-up Girl An Industry Of Battle

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Modes of fighting may change, but one thing about modern war remains: "There'll always be a pin-up girl."

Soldiers and sailors far from home need something to remind them what they are fighting for. The indoctrination lectures are fine, but there's nothing quite like a pretty girl.

World War I had its "Sweetheart of the AEF," the bright, electric vaudeville star, Elsie Janis, who traveled to shell-torn areas of France to sing for American soldiers. Photographs of the star were tacked up in many a barracks.

But pin-ups were not to become an industry until World War II. Then the movie industry was in full flower, and studios flooded the mails with alluring photos of their curvy stars. Winner of the cheesecake war was Betty Grable, the long-stemmed dancer who was starring in nostalgic musicals.

The photo of Miss Grable, gazing perkily over her shoulder in a bathing suit, was cherished by GI's from Anzio to IWO Jima. Runners-up in the pin-up division: Rita Hayworth in a negligee; Jane Russell leaning against a haystack.

The Korean War brought a new star. Marilyn Monroe was considered so photogenic that her studio argued she would look fine in a potato sack. She did. But veterans of the Korean conflict may have preferred her famed calendar pose.

The war in Viet Nam brings a new crop of pin-ups. One of the most notable is Elke Sommer, who has continued the Monroe trend by eschewing clothes in some of her posing. She is a native of Germany, which fact might give pause to veterans for the two world wars.

Voter Registration Upswing Continues

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — An expected upswing continued through October in Negro voter registration in Louisiana, a report of the State Board of registration showed today.

Among 1,221,874 registered voters in the state on Oct. 31, there were 1,013,423 whites and 208,451 Negroes. The Negro total was an increase of 2,389 over the Sept. 30 total of 206,062. The Negro registration total was 163,453 at the end of July, before a new federal law on voter registration took effect.

Louisiana has over 2,000,000 citizens of voting age. About 600,000 of these are Negro.

The "Gordian knot" is a term for a problem solvable only by drastic action. In 333 B.C. Alexander the Great, on his march through Asia, was shown, at Gordium in Phrygia, the chariot of the ancient King Gordias, with its yoke lashed to the pole by a knot of which the ends were hidden. It was to be untied only by the conqueror of Asia. In the popular account Alexander cut the knot through with his sword.

Market Fall Forecast In Stamp World

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Stamp collecting, a favorite hobby, has developed into a "miniature stock market" in West Germany.

That is the description of a Frankfurt expert who warns of an impending "crash" for thousands of investors.

Some stamps have increased in value up to 60,000 per cent within a few years, says Arnold Ebel, a man who has been in the business for 45 years.

Ebel, who recently held a $750,000 stamp auction here, says short-term speculators with considerable stockpiles soon will try to cash their profits, and the market will not be able to stand it.

"Part of the postwar issue is in a very dangerous price bracket," he comments. He predicts that postage stamps issued in the last five years will be first hit in the crash, as speculators have been buying up new issues by the sheet since 1960.

The situation has been aggravated by stamp firms that advertise philately as a worthwhile capital investment and "a hobby that relaxes and brings in big profits," he says.

Ebel says children who take up stamp-collecting are more interested in the profits they can make than in the fascination of the stamps themselves. Trading of stamps is a regular business at schools throughout West Germany.

The children — and probably a good number of adults — are under some illusions as to the real value of stamps, says Ebel.

For dealers are not always interested in increasing their stocks at the market prices, unless the stamps have a particular worth.

Ebel maintains that the predicted crash will hit postwar European issues as well as other stamps that happen to be in fashion.

Stamps from less "fashionable" countries, especially old overseas dominions, are a safer investment in his view.

He estimates that millions of West Germans dabble in the philately business, but only a small percentage are genuine collectors, with specialized knowledge and the necessary finance to support them.

Stamps are always a good investment for people who study the market cautiously, and genuine collectors have nothing to fear from falling prices, Ebel says.

But to people who invest their savings in stamps in preference to normal stocks and shares, Ebel issues a warning:

"There is simply no room for short-term speculation."

Wolf Story Redone In Catchy Way

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC hopes that Sunday Night's "The Dangerous Christmas of Red Riding Hood" will win one of those special niches in television's archives where, like a few other special shows, it will be shown annually.

This viewer, a rabid Cyril Ritchard fan, hopes so too, for the musical adaptation of the children's story into an adult's delight was lots of sly fun, imaginative and tuneful.

Ritchard, in an elegant coat of fur, played Mr. Lone T. Wolf, a socially ambitious, frightfully insecure wolf, eager finally to set the record straight. He insisted he never wanted to eat poor old granny at all, but was just trying to be accepted.

He also disclosed that the girl's real name was Lillian Wolf and she really wasn't such a darling after all.

She was mean about her Christmas present from her mother — in fact wore it inside out so the coat's red lining showed. To make things worse, she was really taking granny a pair of knee warmers for Christmas and promptly gave them away to the first handsome woodchopper she met in the forest.

Liza Minnelli, who dances nicely as well as sings, was the heroine and Vic Damone sang nicely as the rather wooden woodchopper. But it was the fiendish wolf, Ritchard, who stole the show.

"The Julie Andrews Show" on NBC Sunday night was a gay, pleasant and rather low-key hour of singing and dancing in which the talented Miss Andrews had a hefty assist from light-footed Gene Kelly, the New Christy Minstrels — and all those songs from "My Fair Lady" to "The Sound of Music" which are associated with her.

For Thanksgiving

'Seedtime And Harvest' Program for Music Club

A Thanksgiving program, "Seedtime and Harvest," was presented at the Helen G. Steele Music Club Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 24, at Heard Memorial Club House.

Chairmen for the program were: Mrs. Arthur Morgan and Mrs. Carl G. Schrader.

The program was presented in two parts, the first consisting of traditional hymns and Thanksgiving music. The second was a sleigh trip to join in the fun for "Grandma's Thanksgiving."

Mrs. Morgan as narrator, displayed a poster showing the sign of Scorpio, the Scorpion, since it is the eighth of the signs, and thus was often related to the eighth house, the house of death. Scorpio is also described as the "cemetery of Zodiac." Furthermore, according to the Zodiac though the Scorpio man does not set out to please and does not like taking advice, he can be very good company, because he enjoys things so much. Scorpio women are supposed to make excellent cooks. Mrs. Morgan also read an article written by Faith Baldwin titled "The Open Door" telling of Thanksgiving.

A poem, "November Days and Nights," written by a 14 year old and published in "Creative Power," the education of youth in the creative arts, by Hughes Mearns, was also read.

The musical part of the program was presented by a robed sextet composed of Mrs. Jack Gray, Mrs. Donald Barnes, Mrs. Charles Huddleston, Mrs. Allen Telford, Mrs. Arthur Morgan and Mrs. Robert Mason. The sextet sang "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come."

A solo, "Bless This House" words by Helen Taylor and music by May H. Brake, was sung by Mrs. Donald Barnes.

"Thanks be to God" words by P. J. O'Reilly, and music by Stanley Dickson, and "We Gather Together," by Edward Gremser, a traditional Netherlands melody, were sung by the sextet.

The closing number, "Grandma's Thanksgiving" was sung by the sextet, bundled up in coats and ear muffs and seated in a make believe sleigh. Accompanists for the program were Mrs. Schrader and Mrs. James Penn.

Mrs. L. H. Hodges presided over the meeting and welcomed and introduced Mrs. L. C. Fullerton and Mrs. Donald Williams as guests.

Mrs. Jack Herndon announced the Hymn of the Month of November, "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come." She gave a brief history of the origin of the hymn.

Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick announced the next program will be the Christmas tea on Wednesday, Dec. 8, of which she, Mrs. Gary Schwartz and Mrs. Robert England, are chairmen.

Review of Week's News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The battle in the Ia Drang Valley waned, and on the day before Thanksgiving the nation learned what it had cost: 240 Americans killed, 470 wounded, 6 missing. The North Vietnamese regulars had paid a far higher price — well over 2,000 killed — but that was small consolation in many an American home. And the real meaning of Ia Drang was becoming clear — North Vietnamese regulars were coming into the war in large numbers.

Said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam: "There are indications that additional North Vietnamese troops are moving into this country almost daily. I therefore believe that there will be a continued buildup of North Vietnamese regular troops."

Since the North Vietnamese began to stand and fight seven weeks ago, 678 Americans have been killed. That is almost as many as died in the previous 4.5 years of conflict in South Viet Nam. The war was clearly entering a new phase. It looked like a long and grim war, at increasing cost, unless it could be brought to the conference table.

As to that, the week's news was also discouraging. Word came from Hanoi that President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam had reiterated his demand that all United States forces quit South Viet Nam as a pre-condition for talks. Under present American policy, this is an impossible condition. More than 160,000 American troops are now in South Viet Nam, with indications that more strength is on the way. Gen. Westmoreland said he was concerned over American headlines of a "victory" at Ia Drang. The true meaning is that the war "involves a long conflict, and we must be prepared to accept this."

By the simple expedient of reading a proclamation over the Leopoldville radio, Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, 35, named himself president of the Congo at dawn Thursday. He sent a letter to his good friend Joseph Kasavubu, explaining that Kasavubu was no longer president. The general canceled next spring's elections, and said he himself would be president for the next five years.

It was said that the general acted to break a political stalemate between Kasavubu and Moise Tshombe, who had been fired as premier by Kasavubu Oct. 13. Kasavubu had not been heard from since the coup, but Tshombe was reportedly delighted with it. What it all meant, or how long peace would last, nobody could say.

To the south of the Congo — in Rhodesia, where Prime Minister Ian Smith has proclaimed the country independent of Britain — an explosion blowing up an electric system pylon lent a fresh urgency to an already tense situation. Saturday newspapers in London almost unanimously reported that a military group, possibly from the Royal Air Force, will be sent soon to Zambia, the African-ruled nation north of Rhodesia. The pylon carries power northward from the Kariba Dam near Victoria Falls on the Rhodesian border, and some reports called the explosion an attempt by saboteurs to knock out Zambia's rich copper mines by depriving them of electricity. On Nov. 11, Smith unilaterally proclaimed the independence of Rhodesia, a nation of 220,000 whites and 4 million blacks.

Reading from the typewritten page in her hand, Princess Margaret intoned in a high, soft voice: "This for us is a very sad moment." She spoke for herself and her husband, Lord Snowdon, departing after a gay, 21-day visit in the United States. Then the party, including personal hairdresser, maids, footmen and pilot, boarded BOAC flight 490 for Bermuda, en route back to London. The royal couple had obviously enjoyed themselves, and given pleasure to many, in stops at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Tucson and the Grand Canyon, Washington and New York. At the end there was one sour note. Women's Wear Daily, the fashion trade newspaper, said the princess was "a schizophrenic mixture of chic and sheer fashion disaster." It said her styles were "too old and too matronly," and that her mink coat was "motheaten, rat-ty."

The United Nations General Assembly's leading committee voted 91 to 0 in favor of holding a world disarmament conference, with Red China invited. To the surprise of many, the United States voted in favor of the resolution. The committee vote virtually assured that the conference, but that still leaves the Conference a long way from the conference table. The next move is up to Red China. In preparation for the talks, China will have to disclose its views on world peace. That may be what the United States hoped to accomplish by its vote.

The fight grossed $3,870,000 and practically nobody liked it, except the professionals. Cassius Marcellus Clay, 23-year-old heavyweight sometimes known as Muhammad Ali, toyed with a 30-year-old heavyweight named Floyd Patterson for 12 rounds, until the referee stopped the bout. He said Patterson, twice the heavyweight king, was "out-classed," and nobody disagreed with that. Some 7,400 people who paid to witness the exhibition in Las Vegas, and the 460,000 who watched it on closed circuit television around the country, were stunned by the ineptitude of the challenger. Most came away with the feeling that Clay would be champion for a long time.

Some time Thursday night burglars broke into the Vatican Apostolic Library and made off with priceless art treasures. The loot included the original manuscript of "Il Canzoniere," by Petrarch (1304-1374); a manuscript by Tasso (1544-1596); an exact copy of the crown of St. Stephen, first king of Hungary, and a box of relics of Garcia Moreno, assassinated Aug. 6, 1875, when he was president of Ecuador. Pope Paul VI was reported to be deeply grieved by the theft, the first major one in the history of the Vatican. Italian police said the thieves apparently knew exactly what they wanted and where to find it in the Vatican labyrinth.

The Ringen Women's Thanksgiving. The Ringen Neighbors Extension Club met Nov. 21, at the Community Center for the annual Thanksgiving supper for the club and community which was attended by a large crowd.

A short business meeting was held and plans were made to bring cookies and candy to the December meeting to be taken to former members and shut-ins. A sum of $20 was collected for the Children's Therapy Bond Drive.

The food lesson was given by Mrs. G. W. Meyer and Mrs. Rance Hoehns, each preparing a foreign dish for the supper, one Swedish rye bread and the other Finnish salmon and potato dish.

The next meeting will be on Dec. 9, at the home of Mrs. Rance Hoehns with Mrs. Rudy Rehmer and Mrs. George Teter assisting hostesses.

The program planned for the next meeting is the Christmas party at which secret club pals will be revealed.

Charles L. Wiser, 421 East Saline, charged with improper parking, forfeited a $2 bond.

Gladys Woodall, 514 Sunset Drive, charged with parking on the wrong side of the street, forfeited a $2 bond.

The cases of two Sedalia men who received extensive wounds in an altercation Nov. 24 were continued generally in Police Court Monday morning when police were informed one of the pair, Francis Matheny, was being taken for further medical treatment.

Matheny, 52, Route 4, and Curtis Keightley, 50, 108½ North Kentucky, were both charged on a city misdemeanor warrant with fighting and are free on $100 signed bonds.

No new date for a court hearing has been established as yet, police said.

Fires In City

Firemen made a run at 10:04 a.m. Sunday to the Lorne Dunavant residence, 322 East 24th. There was no fire, however. A plastic toy had overheated on a gas heater, firemen said.

Leaves being burned in an incinerator at Smith-Cotton High School, Broadway and Massachusetts, was mistakenly turned in as a fire alarm at 6 p.m. Sunday. Firemen made the run after a passing motorist observed the smoke and reported it to the fire department.

The carburetor overflowed and fuel caught fire on a 1957 DeSoto owned by Douglas Davis, 1028 So. Merriam, at 10:32 a.m. Monday. Firemen made a run to the scene, but the blaze in the car was out when they arrived.

Damage was estimated at $25.

The frame residence of John Straw, 117 West Henry, was gutted by fire which apparently broke out from an overheated wood stove shortly before noon Monday. The alarm was turned in at 11:32 a.m.

Straw was at home and said he was just preparing to take a bath when the flames were noticed. He escaped unhurt, however.

Fire company No. 1, from Sedalia's east station, made the initial response to the fire as the No. 2 company, or downtown company, was tied up on a working grass fire at T & G Motor Company on west Highway 50. The No. 2 truck, however, sprinted across town to aid in battling the residential fire after the grass fire had been brought under control.

Flames gutted the interior and destroyed most of the roof on the Straw residence. Fire Chief Emmett Vaughn estimated the loss at $500 to the house and $200 to its contents.

Magistrate Court

A young California, Mo. man, Dennis Dale Johnson, 18, was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle owned by Terry Lynn, Sedalia, on a warrant filed Monday in Magistrate Court by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz.

Sedalia police had arrested Johnson late Saturday night in the 600 block of South Ohio and questioned him in connection with the thefts of two tires and wheels from two stationwagons in Sedalia overnight Friday. The vehicles were the property of Terry Lynn, 915 South Lamine, and Bob Beaman, 1613 East Sixth.

Police also arrested a 16-year-old juvenile boy, identified as Johnson's brother, and turned been seen a long distance in either direction, and finally the great clock started ticking once more.

It is exactly right on one side, said John Heise and on the other it is one minute off—but that is better than it was, it was two minutes off before the wind knocked it down. The face is of aluminum.

Turley explained that both Heises and the Turley Brothers Welding Shop were at great expense getting that clock back, but it is a real satisfaction to know that it is back as good as new, ticking away telling the time of day and night.

The clock, he went on to say, was at one time operated with weights, and later was motorized.

Although the clock has been in that one spot since probably somewhere near the turn of the century, it has been located at places over town and been owned by different people. Bichsels bought it from L. G. Ardor, who had a jewelry store

At Least 90% Nuts to You

The young lady at the next desk says she had decided to call her new dog "Dumb Dumb" but, like a woman, changed her mind and named the animal "Peanuts."

What with that and the current sale of Christmas peanut candy around the premises, we come to the question of peanut butter and how many peanuts are you getting in this product from the grocery store shelf.

Of course you don't know. Few persons do, or even have thought about it. Why should they know when they are so preoccupied with things like world strife, rising prices, moon shots, coin shortages, population explosion, hemlines, the number of shaves from one blade, Luci Johnson's romance, or whether a gentleman should offer a lady a cigar.

The result is that we are blindly assuming the reason peanut butter doesn't stick to the roof of the mouth as much as it used to is because it's been improved by science.

Not so, we are told.

The real reason, it seems, is — steady now — there aren't as many peanuts in peanut butter as there used to be!

How about THAT?

And if it shakes you, brace yourself for further shock.

We may not even be eating real peanut butter these days. We may be eating peanut spread.

What's the difference?

Well, the Federation of Consumers says you can't rightly call peanut butter peanut butter unless it has 95 per cent peanuts in it. And, says the federation, the peanut butter industry — or at least some of it — is cutting down on the peanuts in peanut butter to make it spread easier.

The Food and Drug Administration has issued an order that peanut butter has to have at least 90 per cent peanuts or it isn't the real thing. And some peanut butter says FDA, has as little as 78 per cent.

So there's the peanut butter problem in a nutshell.

Actually, there is no need to panic. We Americans have handled things as sticky as this before, and we can handle this — IF we keep calm and chew on it together.

If we don't, it could drive us nuts. At least 90 per cent nuts.

"Go Out and Start a Couple More Wars And Stop in Again Next Year!"

The World Today

'Surprised' At Viet Cong Strength

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, now in Viet Nam on his seventh visit, expresses surprise at the "intensity and scale of attacks by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces in recent weeks."

He didn't have to be surprised. Those forces are probably the toughest in Asia. In their eight-year war with France they killed and wounded over 130,000 of the French forces, suffered perhaps more than 200,000 casualties themselves.

McNamara's "surprise" could be taken as an example of how this country and France underestimated the spirit of those Vietnamese who get and got their leadership from the old Communist, Ho Chi Minh, leader of North Viet Nam.

During the first two years of President John F. Kennedy's administration McNamara kept coming back from Viet Nam full of optimism and only slowly, after Kennedy's death, began saying the war might be long and hard.

This country is paying the penalty for having failed to understand the quality of its opponents and for having failed to do more to defeat it.

Now Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., historian and special aide to Kennedy, writes of the late president's reaction when he heard that South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem, had been killed, not by Communists but by his own people.

Diem, backed by this country for eight years, was assassinated Nov. 2, 1963, along with his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, just three weeks before Kennedy's death.

In his book just out, "A Thousand Days," Schlesinger says Kennedy was "somber and shaken."

"I had not seen him so depressed since the Bay of Pigs. No doubt he realized that Viet Nam was his great failure in foreign policy, and that he had never really given it his full attention."

The failure to understand what was happening in Viet Nam, and what was needed to offset the Communist thrust, began long ago.

The French, holding Viet Nam as a colony since the 19th century, were driven out by the Japanese in World War II. After the war the French returned.

They had done so little for the Vietnamese that at the time of the war 90 per cent were illiterate. Under Ho Chi Minh the Vietnamese, and not all of them Communists, resisted. Full war began in 1946 and lasted until 1954.

Then, crushed, the French had to quit. They were so weak that from 1950 to 1954 the United States had to help them with arms and supplies.

Since the French couldn't have carried on the war without U.S. help, this country could have insisted, but didn't, that the French begin to grant the Vietnamese the independence they were waiting for.

After the French pull-out, Viet Nam was divided into the Communist North and the non-Communist South. This country began helping the South.

But in President Diem this country supported a dictator who was loathed and finally killed by his own people. It was after his death, when South Viet Nam began to disintegrate under Viet Cong pressure, that this country gradually got into the war itself, directly.

We the Women

Staying Young Is More Than a Matter of Looks

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

American women spend an unbelievable amount of money on trying to look as young and attractive as possible, and the results are, on the whole, worth the cost.

Millett

Yet in a group it isn't the middle-aged or older woman who has spent all her energy on looking younger than her years who draws others to her.

It's the woman who hasn't neglected either her looks or her mind who stands out as being particularly interesting and charming, and who invariably seems younger than her years.

She knows what is going on in the world and can discuss subjects of more general interest than the woman who thinks staying young is just a matter of looking young.

She has found time, somehow, for enough worth-while community activities to make her feel a real part of her town or city, and in giving unselfishly of her time and effort she has gained a lot as a person.

She seems to radiate enthusiasm and eagerness because she hasn't allowed her life to follow a dull pattern of routine. If she hasn't just done something interesting, she's about to.

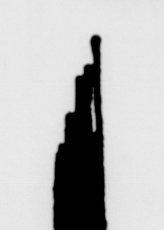

She is just as interested as any woman in her children and their children but she is too much of a person in her own right to let her life revolve around them.

She isn't preoccupied with age — hers or anyone else's — and so she fits in easily with any age group. She has too much to think about to worry about the fact that she is growing older.

No matter what her age her mind is sharp because she has never let it be idle.

We call such women "young in spirit" but what we really mean is that they are young in mind.

The Mature Parent

She Wants 'Responsibility'

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Please tell me what to do. I am 16; but though my parents let my brother take responsibility for himself when he was my age, I am not allowed to take any. When I ask them why I can't do something, they say, "Because I say so." I try and try to get them to talk to me and give me their reasons, but they won't. My friends think that I should not have to take this at my age.

ANSWER: What do your friends want you to do about it? Quit school? Leave home? Find a job? If you lose it, will they feed, clothe and shelter you?

You'd better take a long second look at the value of these friends who urge you to take risks you are not ready to take by encouraging your dissatisfaction with a situation you've got to take for now. They are using you to make themselves feel independent because they are so mad that they are still dependent on their parents.

Stop trusting them. Trust time instead.

You are 16 now. Six years ago you were 10 years old, a little girl who got dolls, red mittens and jewelry-making kits for Christmas. Now you get perfume, lingerie and an electric hair-dryer. In another six years you will be 22, ready to graduate or already graduated from college.

My best counsel is to remember that time passes. No comfort in the world can comfort us so well as recovering our own experience of the way time has moved us forward, changing us, releasing from the person we were yesterday into a new kind all the time. If you will remember this, you can hope for more change, more release instead of despairing as you're now doing that you are trapped in permanent, dependent obedience to your parents.

By wanting to take more "responsibility" for yourself, you really mean that you want to set your own hours for coming home from dates and parties, don't you?

Well, you're certainly entitled to wish that your parents were sharing people who would tell you their reasons for refusing you. But the wish is not going to change them. So what do we do with this fact? Fuss at it and make everyone, including ourselves, miserable for the small time that remains between you and womanhood? It seems like a pretty silly solution.

Get friendly with time. Try to begin to appreciate what it has already done for you, making you bigger, prettier, more competent every day. When the day comes for you to leave your parents, it will let you know—and it will also tell them, "She's ready now."

School and You

Wrangle Over 'New Math'

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: A first for the undersigned, this letter is strictly in criticism (constructive I hope) of the letter from "Sixth Grade Teacher" regarding the "new math," purported to help a child understand not only "how" but also the "why" of mathematics.

I am a public accountant with more than 46 years of experience. With respect to mathematics, I believe my experience has run the full gamut. This includes arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry, reciprocals, calculus, logarithms, etc.

The above background is merely a preamble to my major "gripe" concerning "why" (also "how") a child would understand that 10-5 (10 exponent 5) equals 100,000. We enrolled our granddaughter, 13, in summer school for "review coaching," supposedly covering a review of her math studies in junior high. Instead she has been crammed with a lot of "new math" and other "junk," of which she has not heard or heretofore seen and which, undoubtedly, will prove of no value to her in the future—especially in the business world.

Even with my experience, I am forced to admit that I could be of little help to her. Although I could figure it out, it doesn't even make sense to me—therefore, I could not explain it to her properly. So, how can a sixth grader understand "the new math" and consider it "fun"? Personally, I feel that the $33 fee we paid for summer school was money washed down the drain! — SKEPTICAL GRANDFATHER

P.S. Since writing the above, I have seen and read several articles concerning "new math." O.K.—if a child starts and grows up with it. Otherwise, to change a child's math (both thinking and previous training) in midstream is nothing short of MURDER!—S.G.

ANSWER: Your "P.S." I believe, goes to the root of the matter. Changing a child's math in midstream is one of the greatest weaknesses—and problems—of "new math" set-ups. It's not unusual for a 13-year-old crashing into a program for the first time to be even more confused than her grandfather! (But congratulations to you for being able to figure it out.)

Fortunately, your granddaughter will find modern math easier when the newness wears off. Perhaps she'll eventually explain it to you—so that it makes sense!

Undoubtedly the team-of-four match with International Match Point scoring is the greatest test of bridge skill; but there sure is opportunity for a lot of good luck also.

At the first table in a recent match the bidding proceeded as shown in the box.

West had to make a lead and decided that a heart opening would be likely to cost an important trick. Hence he opened a safe club. Declarer won in his hand and took the spade finesse successfully. Then he proceeded to run off all thirteen tricks when East unguarded his queen of diamonds.

We don't think much of the bidding. South probably should have rebid to three clubs instead of two no-trump. North probably should have bid four spades instead of four no-trump and, in any event, South should have passed at four no-trump.

We refuse to comment on West's opening lead except to quote his remark which was, "If I held this hand next week or next year, I still wouldn't lead a heart."

The bidding went the same way at the other table until North's four no-trump bid got back to South. This particular South saw no reason to bid any more, and passed.

At this table West liked to attack. He opened the three of hearts and the defense had four tricks in before South could get into the lead. He made the rest of the tricks but down one at four no-trump is never a happy result.

World News In Review

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reliable sources say Pope Paul VI is seeking a stronger stand against artificial birth control in the final version of a Vatican Ecumenical Council text.

Council sources said Friday the Pope had asked drafters of the final text on marriage and family planning to take into account the birth control teachings of Pope Pius XI and Pope Pius XII to reaffirm traditional bans against artificial contraception.

The draft text was approved section by section last week. It is now undergoing revision for a final vote due Dec. 4.

Referring to 'responsible parenthood" and "conjugal love," the text in its present form declares that Roman Catholic couples have the right to determine the size of their families. But they must not use means prohibited by the Church, the text adds.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's ruling Unionist party, affiliated with the British Conservatives, has boosted its majority by winning 36 seats in the 52-seat House of Commons.

The final count Friday gave two more seats to the Unionists. The Labor party of Belfast, allied with the British Labor party, lost ground and wound up winning two seats.

The Nationalists won nine seats, two more than they had before.

Lawn Diseases

Since about 1955, more and more home owners are beginning to realize that lawn diseases are the greatest single enemy of good turf. One reason for the apparent increase of diseased lawns is that many home owners are striving for that "perfect lawn" and produce a turf that is more susceptible to disease invasion. Secondly, in the past, diseases have been confused with other types of injury and today more people are conscious of disease injury and are able to recognize it.

More than 100 disease-inciting fungi have been reported on lawn grasses. Only about a dozen diseases are of major importance to home lawns in the country.

Most lawn diseases can be successfully controlled by following a sound cultural control program and timely application of effective fungicides.

The following cultural practices will help to prevent lawn diseases:

1. Mow a Kentucky bluegrass lawn 2 to 2½ inches frequently. Not more than one-third of the leaf surface should be removed at any one time.

2. Remove clippings if they build up a mat on the soil surface. This is conducive to the development of fungi. Clippings which remain on top of the blades after mowing produce an ideal environment for the fungi to start. Clippings should be removed if disease is present.

3. Apply enough fertilizer to keep the grass growing vigorously, but avoid excessive use of fertilizers high in quickly available nitrogen during hot weather.

4. Avoid frequent, light sprinklings, especially during hot weather. Water thoroughly when it begins to wilt but avoid water-logging the soil. Water in the mornings or early afternoon so the grass will dry before evening.

Powdery mildew will attack bluegrasses, fescues. Usually it occurs in shaded or poorly drained areas. Often seen in spring or fall. A heavy infection appears as if the lawn had been dusted with flour. Grayish-white powdery-like growth on blades may cause yellowing and possible death or predisposition to winter injury. The disease is most serious on young grass. Usually not necessary to control on mature turf. To control you can apply Acti-dione RX, Kromad, dusting or wettable sulfur, or Karathane WD according to directions one to three times at ten day intervals.

Soil Treatments
A lot of lime and fertilizer is applied near the end of the year. This is often based upon financial or business reasons or some such matter. This is completely all right as the results are just as good as applying it at some other time.

From now till the end of the year is a good time to lime. If some of your cultivated fields need lime, put it on anytime when the truck won't get stuck. Catch the field when it is dry or frozen. Pasture land is another good opportunity. Should the lime trucks come when you can't get on the cultivated fields, just direct them to the pasture instead.

Of course, the best way to tell whether a field needs lime, and how much, is to test the soil. But don't wait too long just because you limed it a few years ago. With the present high yields and use of large amounts of fertilizer in order to get the high yields, lime doesn't last as long as it did several years ago.

This is borne out by a summary made a little more than a year ago of 64,000 soil tests from all over the state. The fields limed longer than five years ago were compared to those limed less than five years ago. Those fields limed longer than five years ago had 50 per cent more of them with a pH of less than 5.5 than those limed within the last five years. In the same way, those limed within the last five years had 50 per cent more of them with a pH of 6.0 or above than those limed more than five years ago. In other words, after five years the lime situation was going to the bad. And five years comes around pretty quick. Don't wait too long to relime.

If you spread fertilizer in bulk, you had just as well do it before the end of the year also.

The fertilizer to be used on croplands for next year can be spread on land that is to be plowed this fall or winter. As a matter of fact, it can be spread now even if the ground will not be plowed before spring. That doesn't make any difference. Oh, if the land is subject to erosion you probably should wait. Water runoff only will not hurt unless the soil itself is actually lost.

Pasture land with its grass cover is an especially good place to spread fertilizer now. That is true if the pasture is to be plowed up and cropped next year. It is also true if the pasture is to be left next year.

Some folks are concerned about the safety of pasturing either grass or stalk fields after spreading fertilizer. Really, it is safe. It is true that cattle can be killed by eating too much nitrogen. Just licking it like salt will kill them. So do not let cattle run to truck loads of fertilizer or sacks of nitrogen piled up for future use. However, when it is spread on fields the concentration is so low that there is no danger.

The amount of lime and also the kind and amount of fertilizer to use is best determined by soil test. The instructions for taking the soil sample to be tested can be obtained from your County University Extension Center.

Grain Sorghum Stubble

When can you turn your cattle out in combined grain sorghum fields? Sorghum stubble should not be considered safe for pasture until after a hard freeze. Usually the mature leaves and stalks will not contain lethal amounts of prussic acid. . . but the young tender suckers which frequently occur may be quite high in prussic acid potential. Because they are young and tender, they are likely to be more palatable than older portions of the plant and will be selectively grazed.

To be entirely safe, wait until a few days after a hard killing freeze before pasturing sorghum stubble. If you notice this new green growth at the bottom of the plants, it may be dangerous to your cattle.

Test Seeds
The direct cash cost of raising a crop commonly runs from $25 to $30 an acre, and total costs approximate $45 to $50 an acre, so you just can't afford to gamble on not using good seed. If you have any question about your own seed, you can't afford not to replace it with certified seed or other seed of known good quality. If seed of your own production is good otherwise, you still will want to get it tested. Sometimes seed which looks good may fail to germinate and cause a failure or necessitate reseeding. If you plan on selling any, a test is essential to determine the value of seed, and help you sell it if it proves good.

In order to get a test made, you may want to utilize a commercial seed testing laboratory, or use laboratories which make free tests for farmers. These five laboratories in Missouri are the Field Crops Laboratory at Columbia, or the State Department of Agriculture at Jefferson City.

In any case it is important to get your sample in these laboratories early to insure getting results back in time for use. The laboratories at both Jefferson City and Columbia will take the seed of grasses, clovers, lespedeza and oats during December and January. Corn, cotton, soybeans, sorghum and rice will be accepted up to May 1, but you really need to get those seeds in during December, January, or February to be sure that you will have the results back well ahead of planting.

You will need to send in one quart of larger sized seeds like corn, oats, sorghum and soybeans — but one pint of grass

'Grapes of Wrath' On Farm

WASHINGTON (AP) — This was the year "The Grapes of Wrath" revisited American agriculture.

But unlike John Steinbeck's 1939 novel about the tragic plight of the U.S. migrant worker, most of the 1965 wrath descended on the head of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who was carrying out a policy laid down by Congress.

Also in contrast with 1939, the welcome mat was out in 1965 for American migrant harvesters. This year, when Wirtz forced big farm interests to slash their imports of foreign farm laborers from 200,000 to 37,000, the American workers never had it so good.

And his future looks even better as growers woo him with better wages, housing and working conditions to replace the flood of Mexicans, British West Indians and other foreigners who used to pour in to harvest the nation's crops.

The wrath came from big agricultural interests and their spokesmen in Congress, whose protests could be heard all the way from the tomato fields to the White House.

"Tremendous" crop losses due to labor shortage were reported by Ruth Wedgeworth, one of Florida's biggest growers.

"Disaster," cried Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., chief spokesor and legislature seeds will be sufficient. Use strong containers which will not break or tear in shipment.

Strive to get a good representative sample. Seed from the top of the bin or from only one or two sacks of a big lot may not be representative. Draw several samples and mix thoroughly before taking your final sample. Be sure that you label the samples clearly as to name, address, kind of seed and identification number.

It will save time if you only want a germination test to state this on the label. A purity test takes time and is worthless if the seed has not been cleaned. However, if you plan to retail seed so that a label is required, you will need both germination and purity tests. Such seed should be cleaned before submitting your sample.

Your County University Extension Center has an MU Guide available that gives full instructions on dates seeds will be accepted, how to take samples and prepare for mailing or shipping. You can check with your Center if you need any further details on submitting samples. They will also be glad to help you evaluate the test results.

Remember that it costs very little to test seeds, but it may cost you a crop or a much reduced one if you do not test. Go get your tests back on time, submit your samples early.

man in Washington for California's farm interests.

The Labor Department denied any crop losses due to labor shortages.

"We got the crops in with fewer workers than ever before," said a department spokesman. And prices actually declined despite higher labor costs, he added.

Steinbeck's fictional 1939 farm migrant chugged from state to state in a rattletrap jalopy, barely earning enough to feed his carload of hungry children.

But in 1965, U.S. workers averaged about $2.25 per hour in the fields, and in some cases as high as $3.50 where piece rates are paid. Mexican braceros last year averaged only $1.37.

Many growers argued that Americans would not stoop to the backbreaking labor of harvesting such crops as lettuce, tomatoes, strawberries, potatoes — and the grapes of Steinbeck's novel title.

But Wirtz, pushing an all-out drive to recruit U.S. farm workers, was equally adamant in his argument that Americans would do the work if they are paid enough.

But so successful was Wirtz in blocking the importation of foreign workers that 18 of the 29 states which used foreign laborers last year used none in 1965.

Many farmers turned to mechanical equipment, but even so the American migrant farm worker suddenly became the center of sharp competition.

In Texas, labor recruiters from other states were cursed as "pirates."

"The California recruiters are the ones going wild," said Dick Moore of the Moore Canning Co. in McAllen, Tex.

"One came down and took the crew leaders and got 'em drunk and sent trinkets to their wives and all that," Moore said.

Texas, which used more than 15,000 braceros at the peak of the cotton season last year, used none this year.

Michigan growers, whose big cucumber crop provides most of the nation's pickles, voiced warnings they would lose most of their crops.

Wirtz dispatched some hastily organized "A-teams" — high school youths with adult supervisors — but the Michigan growers turned them down.

finding local labor to do the job.

California tomato growers sharply reduced plantings at the prospect of crop losses.

But, the Labor Department said, the cutback was made deliberately to prevent an oversupply and bid up prices.

"California's processing tomato crop in 1965 had a value of almost $11 million more than 1964 crop although 27,000 fewer acres were planted," a Labor Department report said.

Although labor costs went up from $9 to $15 a ton for tomatoes, retail prices increased no more than a penny a can, it said.

A September price check showed retail prices down for grapes, apples, oranges, potatoes, celery and peppers compared with last year. There were increases for strawberries, onions, asparagus and cucumbers, the Labor Department said.

The Council of California Growers, reporting multimillion-dollar losses in tomatoes, blamed Wirtz even though he finally authorized bringing in some 19,000 Mexicans.

"If they had arrived three weeks earlier there would have been few if any losses," said Leslie V. Hubbard, a council spokesman.

But, the Labor Department said any delay in the arrival of the Mexicans was due to the time it took the growers to work out a deal with the Mexican government.

While trouble spots remain, particularly in Florida sugar cane, Wirtz believes he has proved his point that American crops can be harvested largely by American workers at decent wages.

The Labor Department has made clear it will try to eliminate the use of foreign labor altogether if it can.

While Wirtz has borne the brunt of the attack from farm interests, Congress started it all last Dec. 31 by allowing the Mexican labor import law to expire after 14 years.

While Wirtz appears to have won the battle, farm interests still are fighting a rearguard action.

Wirtz recently announced he would meet every month with some of the nation's biggest farm employers to discuss their labor problems.

FHA Processing Opportunity Loans

The Farmers Home Administration is processing opportunity loan applications from rural families. The opportunity loan program is part of the President's war on poverty. Low-income farm and rural families can receive loans up to $2,500 to develop farm enterprises or business services that will bring added income.

This means more food, better clothing and improved housing for the rural needy. Facts about the economic opportunity loan program may be obtained from the Farmers Home Administration office serving Pettis County at 605 South Massachusetts, Sedalia.

Leading Draftees

MU's Peay, McAdams Are First Round Draft Picks

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Francis Peay, Missouri tackle, and Carl McAdams, Oklahoma linebacker, were first round draft choices by the National Football League and the leading draftees from the Midlands, Nebraska's Big Eight champions had eight men drafted, four in the early rounds by both leagues.

Peay was chosen by New York, McAdams by St. Louis.

A total of 26 Big Eight players were drafted, 14 by both leagues. 14 Missouri Valley players were drafted, only 4 by both leagues — all from Tulsa; and 8 from six small colleges in the Midlands. The total is 48 players, 22 schools.

Nebraska's top choices were tackle Walt Barnes, chosen in the second round by Washington of the NFL and in the third by the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League; end Tony Jeter, third round by Green Bay, NFL, eighth by Oakland, AFL; end Freeman White, ninth by New York, NFL, second by Denver, AFL; tackle Dick Czap, 12th by Cleveland, NFL, fifth by Buffalo, AFL; linebacker Lynn Senkbeil, 16th by Chicago, NFL, fifth by Kansas City.

Peay, McAdams, Barnes, White and Jeter were All-Big Eight choices and prime All America candidates. Such standouts as Missouri quarterback Gary Lane, Kansas tackle Mike Shinn and Johnny Roland, Missouri's two-way back, were drafted as futures last year.

Peay was chosen by the Chiefs in the second round, McAdams by New York in the AFL's third round. Tackle Butch Allison of Missouri was drafted in the second round by both leagues — Baltimore and Oakland, Bruce Van Dyke of the Tigers was picked in the 15th round by the Chiefs and in the 12th by Philadelphia, NFL.

Nebraska's Bob Pickens, a 6-6, 260-pound red shirt, was drafted second as a future by the Chiefs and third as a future by the Chicago Bears.

Howard Twilley, Tulsa's record-smashing little spit end, was chosen 14th by Minnesota, NFL, and 12th by Miami, AFL.

Other Midlands draft choices, by teams:

Nebraska—tackle Jim Brown by St. Louis, NFL; lineman Dick Fitzgerald by San Francisco, NFL.

Missouri — Bruce Van Dyke, tackle, by Philadelphia and Kansas City; Monroe Phelps, halfback, by Buffalo, AFL.

Oklahoma—Mike Ringer, halfback, by St. Louis and Denver; back Bill Thomas, future by Oakland.

Kansas—halfback Mike Johnson and back Steve Renko by Oakland, end Willie Ray Smith by Kansas City.

Colorado — end Frank Rogers by Denver.

Big War Yet To Come

N.F.L. Takes Quick Lead In Grid Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has taken a quick lead over the American Football League in signing draft choices, but the major battles in the checkbook war figure to be fought over two obviously talented and plainly uncommitted players — Tommy Nobis and Jim Grabowski.

Nobis, the Texas linebacker with a 20-inch neck, and Grabowski, the Illinois fullback with Red Grange's records, are the only remaining competitive first-round choices unsigned since the bidding war began Saturday while the drafts were being conducted.

Long before the AFL ended selecting after 17 hours and 59 minutes and the NFL closed down draft headquarters after 30 hours and 50 minutes, it became evident that some players were committed to certain teams — before the draft — and were therefore being avoided by others.

Arbanas' Troubles Forgotten

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Chiefs have forgotten about the trouble Fred Arbanas had with his eye. The only trouble was Arbanas was beginning to suspect the Chiefs also had forgotten about him.

"They just haven't been throwing to me as far as I'm concerned," Arbanas said recently in discussing the loss of sight in his left eye. "As far as I'm concerned they don't have confidence in me. My right eye does all the work but as long as they throw it near me I can catch it."

The Chiefs threw it near him Sunday and the big tight end who made the all-American Football League team last year caught two touchdown passes as the Chiefs ripped the Houston Oilers 52-21.

In the only other game scheduled, Boston upended New York 27-23 and enabled idle Buffalo to clinch the Eastern Division title. Arbanas was walking down a Kansas City street last December when "the next thing I knew I was hit."

What had happened was that he had taken a blind-side punch from an unknown assailant.

"If he hit a normal man like that he might have killed him," Arbanas explained. "The police and the doctors said he had to hit me with brass knuckles the way I was cut around the eye. I had two operations but I haven't had any real trouble."

Still, going into the Houston game he had caught only 16 passes and scored one touchdown.

"I'd just like to be used a little more," said Arbanas. "If we don't throw to everybody it's like using 10 or nine men."

There was no doubt the Chiefs used 11 men against the Oilers and Arbanas was one of the keys, doubling his entire touchdown output for the season by grabbing a five-yard pass from Len Dawson for one score and snaring a 27-yarder from Pete Beathard for the other.

Dawson passed for two other touchdowns as he completed 14 of 17 attempts for 211 yards and also scored on a quarterback sneak. Ode Burrell scored two Houston touchdowns on runs of 48 and 16 yards.

The victory kept the Chiefs in the Western Division race with a 6-4-2 record compared to San Diego's 6-2-3 and Oakland's 6-4-1.

The Patriots brought their record to 2-8-1 by beating the Jets and dropped New York out of contention for the Eastern title with a 4-6-1 record.

Drake — tackle Frank Fuller, Houston.

Louisville — tackle Charley Johnson signed by San Francisco; linebacker Doug Buffone by Chicago and San Diego; back Al MacFarlane by Buffalo; future back Benny Russell, St. Louis, North Texas — tackle Martin Kahn, center Bob Sanders both by Atlanta.

Washburn—back Melvin Myricks, future by Kansas City.

Ottawa—quarterback Ed Buzzell by Houston.

Lincoln U.—end Jim Tolbert by San Diego.

LARGE LADD—Ernie Ladd, right, the San Diego Chargers' 6-9, 325-pound defensive tackle dwarfs his 5-11, 220-pound teammate Rick Redman as both ease the aches and pains of play in a sauna bath.

Crimson Tide Now Turns To Nebraska

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama's Crimson Tide, counted out of everything two months ago but named to a bowl a week ago, has completed one of the biggest comebacks of the 1965 college football season and now turns its attention to Nebraska.

"We haven't turned a wheel on Nebraska," Alabama Coach Bear Bryant said. "We haven't looked at them, haven't scouted them, haven't thought about them."

But the Tide, ranked fifth in the country and headed for a Jan. 1 Orange Bowl date with Nebraska, 10-0 and No. 3 nationally, undoubtedly will be thinking about the Cornhuskers a lot this week.

They have nothing else to do. Bryant, one of the toughest task masters in the business, gave the team the week off after Alabama closed its regular season with a 30-3 triumph over Auburn Saturday.

"I'm proud of them," Bryant said, "more so than any team I've ever been associated with. They had to come from so far back."

First Quarter Costs Pistons Cage Encounter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For 42 minutes of their National Basketball Association game Sunday night, Detroit and Los Angeles matched point for point. It was the six-minute span midway through the first quarter that left the Pistons on the short end of a 128-110 decision.

Los Angeles was leading 19-15 with 6:11 left in the first period when the Pistons hit a scoring famine that lasted for almost the rest of the period. The Lakers spun off 19 straight points before Detroit's Bill Buntin finally scored another basket just before the end of the quarter.

After that, the two clubs matched almost point for point but that six-minute jump was too much for Detroit to overcome. Jerry West and Rudy LaRusso paced the Laker attack with West netting 28 points and LaRusso 24. Red Thorn had 21 and Don Kojis 20 for Detroit.

In the only other NBA game Sunday, Baltimore stood off a late St. Louis rally and whipped the Hawks 110-102.

Warm-Up By Brown Results In Havoc For Pittsburg

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The yardage machine that wears number 32 and operates out of the Cleveland Browns' backfield is like any other piece of complicated machinery. It takes time to warm up.

So Jimmy Brown spent the first 30 minutes of Sunday's National Football League game against Pittsburgh doing less than spectacular damage to the Steelers. He managed just 19 yards in seven carries and Cleveland's lead was only 7-0 at halftime.

But 30 minutes is more time than Brown gives most of Cleveland's NFL opponents so he didn't waste any time after the intermission.

The bruising fullback took off on a 67-yard sprint on the first play from scrimmage in the third period. Five plays later he barreled into the end zone with the first of his four touchdowns for the day and the Browns were on their way to a 42-21 romp and their second consecutive Eastern Conference crown.

Brown carried 13 times in the second half, gaining 128 yards — a full game's work for most good runners.

The Browns needed help to clinch the Eastern crown and got it from Chicago and Philadelphia. The Bears whipped New York 35-14 and the Eagles edged St. Louis 28-24, eliminating the only clubs who still had a shot at Cleveland.

In the Western Conference, Los Angeles gave a big boost to Baltimore's hopes for a second straight championship by upsetting No. 1 contender Green Bay 21-10. In other NFL games Sunday, Washington nipped Dallas 34-31 and San Francisco walked Minnesota 45-24. Baltimore and Detroit, who played to a 24-24 tie on Thanksgiving Day, were idle.

Gale Sayers, who seems a cinch for Rookie of the Year honors, set an NFL record for freshmen with his 13th and 14th touchdowns of the season as the Bears ripped the Giants. Sayers scored on runs of 15 and 45 yards.

Norm Snead and Pete Retzlaff put on a great passing and catching show as the Eagles caught the Cardinals. Retzlaff caught nine passes for 148 yards and three TDs, the last one a 10-yarder with less than three

Howe, Worsley Are At Each Other Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gordie Howe keeps picking on Gump Worsley and Worsley keeps taking it out on the rest of the National Hockey League.

Howe scored the 600th goal of his fabulous 20-year NHL career Saturday night and Montreal Goalie Worsley was the victim — just as he'd been when the indestructible Detroit star reached two other milestones. Howe bagged No. 500 at Worsley's expense three years ago tied Maurice Richard' former all-time mark of 544 goals against Gump the following season.

This time, however, Worsley shrugged off the big Red Wing's third-period tally and beat Detroit 3-2, then checked the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 Sunday night, leading Montreal into first place in the NHL race.

Toronto moved up to third, five points behind Chicago, with a come-from-behind 4-2 victory over New York and the Red Wings rebounded against Boston 5-3 in other Sunday games.

The 37-year-old Howe, who had not scored a goal in two weeks, took his record-maker in stride. "It wasn't like when I was going for Richard's record," he said. "The pressure was really on then."

minutes to play. Snead, who hit on 15 of 31 for 248 yards, marched the Eagles from their own 27 for the winning score, hitting Retzlaff three times before the TD pitch.

Bruce Gossett kicked four field goals, three of them from better than 40 yards, as the Rams dropped Green Bay 1½ games back of the Colts in the West with just three games to play.

The victory snapped an eight-game Los Angeles losing string that had covered two months.

Sonny Jurgensen pitched Washington to a pair of touchdowns in the final four minutes as the Redskins overtook Dallas. Jurgensen, who completed 26 of 42 passes for 411 yards, used just eight plays for the two marches downfield, covering 64 yards in the first series and 80 in the second.

John Brodie completed 10 of 19 passes against Minnesota, half of them for touchdowns. The five scoring pitches made it easy for San Francisco as the Vikings suffered their third straight one-sided loss.

Pressure On Oakland, San Diego

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Veteran Len Dawson is in top form, the Kansas City Chiefs are hanging in the American Football League's western division race and Coach Hank Stram maintains the pressure is on San Diego and Oakland.

"We've got an open date next week and can sit back and rest and let them hammer away," Stram said after the Chiefs crushed Oakland 52-21 Sunday. Kansas City stands 6-4-2, Oakland 6-4-1 and San Diego is still solidly in front with 6-2-3.

Dawson completed 14 of 17 passes for 211 yards and three touchdowns. It was his third straight hot passing game.

"I don't think Len's ever thrown with more accuracy than he did today," Stram said. "He called an excellent game, but don't forget the offensive line played a major part."

"Len did a good job of picking the defense apart," said Curtis McClinton, who gained 92 yards in 20 carries.

"They were blitzing a lot today," Dawson said. "This left their deep backs on a one-on-one coverage situation. The offensive line gave me plenty of time to throw and Otis (Taylor), Fred (Arbanas) and Frank (Jackson) were able to beat their men practically every time."

Taylor caught 5 for 73 yards and one TD, Arbanas 3 for 40 and 2 touchdowns, Jackson 5 for 118 and one TD. Arbanas is in top form despite an injury last year which left him with partial sight in one eye.

Before the San Diego game Arbanas contended the Chiefs weren't using him enough as a receiver, and said so publicly. Stram said it wasn't intentional and tight ends often are the most neglected receivers in pro ball.

The Chiefs have thrown more to Arbanas and the club stands 2-0-1 in three games since the big tight end aired his feelings.

Mack Lee ripped the Oilers 119 yards on 9 carries including a 66-yarder on a trap play which made it 24-0 at halftime. Dave Hill blocked the middle linebacker and Ed Budde took out the end.

"Beautiful!" Hill said. "When I got the ball and looked ahead, there was nobody there."

Stram reminded newsmen his outstanding defensive unit led by Jerry Mays, Bobby Bell and Buck Buchanan was again a major factor. They held the Oilers to only three first downs in the first half.

Pete Beathard took over for Dawson, ran for one TD and passed for another to make it 52-7 before Ode Burrell of Houston closed the gap with 48 and 16-yard scoring runs.

The victory avenged Houston's last-minute 38-36 victory over the Chiefs earlier this season and left the Oilers 4-7 in the east.

Nicklaus Just Shy Of Leaders

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus hit his second shot to the green on the 18th hole at Oakbourne Country Club course and left himself a 12-foot putt for a birdie, which would have given him a 68 for the final round of the $32,000 Cajun Classic, final PGA tourney of 1965.

The Golden Bear, a slight smile on his face, walked to the scorer's table to check the results of earlier finishers.

"Who?" asked the Masters champ. Then he laughed and said, "I'm only kidding."

The 25-year-old Ohio strong-boy's putt slid two feet past the cup and he had to settle for a 69.

The three-under-par score on the 6,555-yard course meant big Jack was one stroke shy of the leader after the regulation 72 holes.

Barf Hiskey and Dudley Wysong did have it and Hiskey, who was born on the edge of an Idaho golf course, canned a fast putt from 20 feet out to win the title on the second hole of the sudden death.

Nicklaus knew who Wysong was. He had beaten the Southern Methodist graduate in the finals of the U.S. Amateur in 1961. He's seen Hiskey's name near the bottom of the list of also-rans in other tourneys.

Neither Hiskey nor Wysong, each 26, had ever won an official tourney.

After Hiskey, an ex-Houston University golfer, sent his putt charging toward the cup successfully, Wyhony who earlier had been gripping his stomach tightly when he got butterflies, missed one from 15 feet away that would have sent the play-off into another hole.

North Dakota Wins Mineral Water Bowl

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP)—North Dakota University got an early jump on Northern Illinois and went on to a 37-20 victory in the Mineral Water Bowl football game Saturday.

Stan Wright returned the opening kickoff 64 yards, setting up North Dakota's first touchdown, and Northern Illinois never really recovered from the setback.

North Dakota intercepted five passes thrown by Ron Christian, Northern's highly-rated passer, and he completed only 8 of 20 for 130 yards before he was forced out of action by an injury in the first half.

The Dakotans gained 220 yards on the ground, Northern only 19. Northern passed for 301 yards and North Dakota for 207.

Say, Bradley Favored For MVC Honors

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri Valley baseball coaches picked Bradley as the championship favorite at their annual meeting Sunday while observing the presence of several blue-chip sophomores and junior college transfers will help make it a wide-open title race.

Every team but North Texas has at least one outstanding sophomore, highly touted by his coach. Louisville's Westley Unseld, 6-foot-8 and 245 pounds, heads the list, although he's currently out with a knee injury.

Joe Stowell of Bradley, one of four new Valley coaches, is on the hot seat because he has all five regulars returning and all scored in double figures. Next in order, in coaches' poll, were Wichita, St. Louis, Louisville, Tulsa, Drake, Cincinnati and North Texas.

"Our drawback is lack of height, with center Ron Martin only 6-5 1/2," Stowell said. "Rebounding and defending against the big man may be a problem at times."

"As far as I'm concerned I'll keep saying we're going to win it until we're mathematically eliminated," Thomson said.

Drake coach Maurice John is counting heavily on transfers Gary Lovemack, 6-7, Harold Jeter, 6-3 and Walter Gaskins, 6-5, and expects a big year from 6-8 pivot Bob Netolicky, who's in top shape and hustling.

Transfer Ruben Russell is important to Spika's plans. Willie Davis, a 6-8, 245-pound stand-out is foul-prone. John Love, the swift and talented football flanker, will help.

Retzlaff Dazzles Gridsters

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ask safety man Monk Bailey of the St. Louis Cardinals where the action is and he'll tell you to stick with Pete Retzlaff—if you can. Bailey spoke from experience after trying in vain to keep up with the Philadelphia tight end Sunday afternoon. From a distance, Bailey saw Retzlaff catch nine passes for 148 yards and three touchdowns that sparked the Eagles to a 23-24 National Football League victory over the Cardinals.

"I hear he was playing with a bum ankle and he still beat the heck out of me," said a stunned Bailey, a second-year man making his first start for the Cardinals.

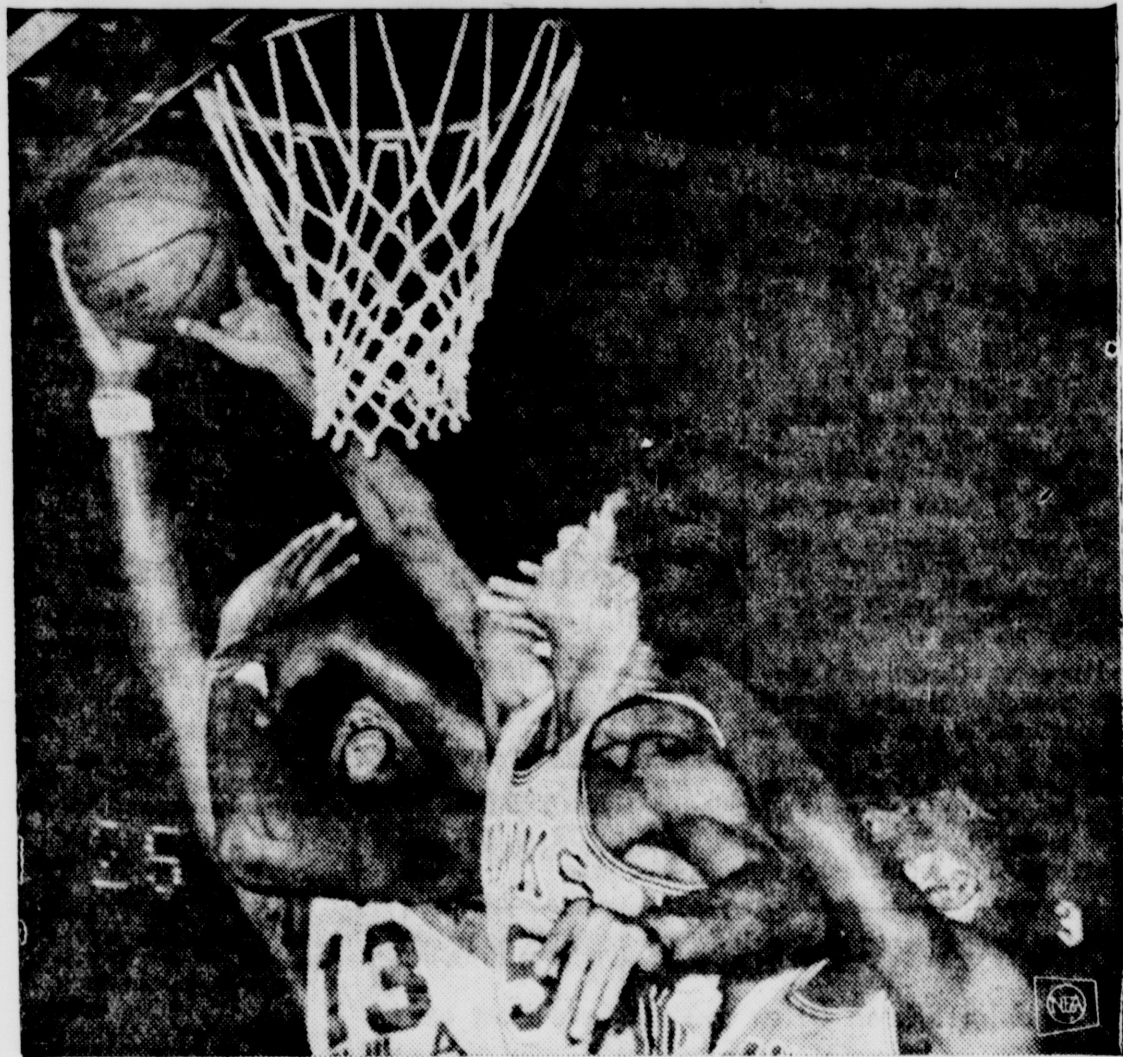

"One time he twisted me around so fast I didn't have time to put my hand down to catch myself and my face mask stuck in the mud. I took my eyes off him several times to see where the ball was and he was gone." "You can't take 11 years of experience out of the defensive backfield and not have it hurt," Retzlaff said, referring to the injuries to Larry Wilson and Jerry Stovall of St. Louis that put Bailey and Carl Silvestri in the game. "But young Bailey did a good job. I've had easier afternoons against some of the veterans."

Retzlaff caught three other passes for 51 yards and three first downs that kept alive the Eagles' 73-yard winning drive before catching the 10-yard clincher from Norm Sted with 2 1/2 minutes remaining. His other touchdown passes were for 23 and five yards.

Graustark Is Back In Big Race Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Remember Graustark? He's the 2-year-old colt who had thoroughbred racing circles buzzing with superlatives last summer. He was rated better than Buckpasser who went on to become the top 2-year-old of the year.

Graustark, a son of Ribot-Flower Bowl, won three straight races in Chicago for John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm before he suffered a shin splint on his left foreleg and was retired for the year.

Graustark now is reported bedded down at Hialeah and being pointed for the 3-year-old stakes during the Florida winter season that are stepping stones to the triple crown events, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes, and a possible meeting with Buckpasser.

Favor UCLA This Season

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The go-go Bruins of UCLA are heavy favorites to make college basketball history this season by winning an unprecedented third straight national collegiate championship.

UCLA, only the fifth team in history to win consecutive national titles, was the top choice in the Associated Press pre-season poll.

Oklahoma A&M, Kentucky, San Francisco and Cincinnati also won two in a row, but all failed in quest of a third straight.

Coach Johnny Wooden's Bruins, favored to again dominate the Pacific Athletic Conference despite their exhibition defeat by the UCLA frosh Saturday night, open their season this weekend at home against two Big Ten opponents, Ohio State on Friday and Illinois on Saturday.

of the headlines his jockey, Braulio Baeza, has been bringing home winners with regularity and is the leading rider at Aqueduct. He had four winners at the Big A last Saturday although he finished out of the money with Going Abroad in the $57,100 Gallant Fox Handicap. Choker, running without blinkers, came from far back to win by 1 1/4 lengths over Brave Lad. Swift Lady won the $73,200 Marguerite Stakes at Pimlico.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson thinks the government is paying too much to borrow money.

Do protest marches convince anybody? No, says a leader of last weekend's Washington demonstration.

Peace, nuclear disarmament and moon pacts are on the menu for the White House Conference on International Cooperation.

LBJ: President Johnson is reportedly ready to crack down on the high interest rates the nation's lenders are charging the government.

The White House says that since 1961 the cost of short-term bonds now cost 12 per cent more. The nation's bankers and money managers have been getting along surprisingly well with Democrat Johnson, but there are some indications that Johnson believes they make too much money.

PROTEST: Protest marches against American involvement in Viet Nam publicize an organization's views very effectively, but do little to convince anybody to change his views. That's the opinion of Sanford Gottlieb, one of the leaders of Saturday's peace march on Washington in which more than 20,000 persons took part.

Gottlieb, who says march officials were pleased at the turnout, explains that "none of us has any illusions about the effect of any single march or even about marches as a form of action." To get results, he said, protest steps — such as letter writing — must be carried out week by week.

CONFERENCE: A White House Conference on International Cooperation opened today and one of its first recommendations advises President Johnson to seek international agreement on a code for human activity on the moon.

Other suggestions include urging the United States to undertake an up-to-$100-million annual program to help other countries carry out birth control measures. Another proposal seeks U.S. aid to help foreign nations increase their food production.

The conference was greeted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who said, "We need big blueprints and ideas."

CAPITAL QUOTES
Public aid recipients who are over 65 and not receiving Social Security benefits soon will be enrolled by state welfare agencies in the new medicare program. A political scientist says a $300-million computer system could help Congress become "more vital and independent."

CAPITAL QUOTES
Sanford Gottlieb, head of the Saturday's Washington peace march: "At a time when a dramatic event is needed to publicize your point of view, there's nothing like a large demonstration. But a demonstration doesn't convince anybody."

GRANDSTAND PLAY—Rain forces the New York Jets to work out in the deserted corridors under the stands at Shea Stadium. # New Look Promised For K. C.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Alvin Dark promises to provide Kansas City with an exciting new look in 1966 when he attempts to guide the Athletics out of the American League cellar.

The new manager of the A's, operating in the American League for the first time after a star-studded career as a player and manager in the National League, says Kansas City will "run and run and run."

Dark says he considers the opportunity to takeover a last-place club "a real challenge" after managing San Francisco to four first-division finishes in his only other managerial stint.

The naming of Dark a few minutes after the announcement that Haywood Sullivan was quitting as manager of the A's to join the front office of the Boston Red Sox highlighted the opening of the annual meeting of major and minor league baseball officials.

Drafting of minor league players was scheduled today with Kansas City getting the first draft choice and the New York Mets the second.

Most clubs indicated they hoped to pick up one or two young prospects.

Dark was given a two-year contract at $40,000 a year by Kansas City owner Charles Finley, who last Aug. 28 hired Dark away from the Cubs where he had spent the summer coaching.

Dark was released as San Francisco manager a year ago after the Giants finished fourth in the National League, their worst showing under the 43-year-old former All-Star shortstop.

RECIPE FOR COMEDY—All you need for a hilarious movie scene is the beautiful Elke Sommer wearing nothing but a man's shirt and Bob Hope trying to hold her upright against a wall with a mop. The bit is just one laugh in Hope's new film, "Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number." Marjorie Lord is the third principal in the cast.

Stock Market Ends Month Where It Was In October

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has ignored all the golden profits reports and the predictions of a bigger boom ahead to end up November about where it was in the middle of October.

That is, the ups and downs of the popular stock averages have about canceled themselves out. But a number of individual companies and some industries have held the public's fancy and staged considerable price gains.

The see-saw hesitancy of the general list, as measured by the blue chips, has been due to the uncertainties that plagued the market after the summer upsurge. But, as usual, some of these very uncertainties have aided the stocks of favored industries.

Example: A big damper on general speculative enthusiasm has been the buildup of the war in Viet Nam. Traders change their mind from week to week as to whether this might get big enough to put a crimp in some civilian goods production and sales. Yet in one sector of the market, aerospace and aeronautics, the tendency has been for stocks to go on rising. Companies with defense orders, or prospects of bigger orders, have benefited.

One uncertainty plaguing stock traders has been how the tug of war between the advocates of tight money and easy money will turn out. More abundant credit might fire up the boom, making stocks attractive; tight money might put a clamp on consumer buying and business spending and bring the boom to an end. This uncertainty has put some investors on the sideline to wait for a clearer decision.

The government's clamp down on price increases in aluminum, copper and high grade wheat also worries some traders. They are trying to figure what this may mean to the boom — and more specifically, to the profit prospects of business in general. Investors, like corporate executives, get skittish at signs of government control.

Others apparently are still unconvinced that the economy is going to expand smartly next year. They see auto sales setting records now, but aren't sure they can get much better. They are told that business is planning to spend more for plants and equipment, but aren't too sure this won't mean excess productive facilities. A plant construction boom in 1956 and 1957 meant a surplus of idle equipment in the recession of 1958.

Profits are reassuring. They are setting records. Dividend payments are running some 11 per cent ahead of a year ago and year-end extras are becoming common. But all this is based on past performance. Some traders are afraid that profit margins, which have been getting fatter this year, are due to shrink as production costs rise.

Yet all of the hesitancy hasn't bothered some industries in the last few weeks. Standard & Poor's compilation of stock prices shows these groups doing better than the market as a whole: makers of television and radio sets, railroads, coal companies, machine tools, electronics, aerospace, electrical equipment, publishing and metal fabricating.

In many cases prices haven't advanced as fast as they did during the summer upturn. But the public is still playing favorites, even if the blue chip averages may seem stuck on dead center.

Columnist Dips Into His Mailbag

George Washington was the only president who never lived in the White House. But it was he who chose the site and approved the design. It now has 150 rooms, including a solarium, swimming pool, dental and medical offices and a barber-shop.

Our changing world: It is predicted that 13 per cent of all sales in 1966 will be for products and services that didn't exist a year ago.
